Short description of the initiatives	The objective of I-YES project was to equip youth leaders and youth workers across Europe with tools that enable them to holistically integrate the topics of climate justice and sustainability into non-formal youth work. The approach of Global Citizenship Education will allow them to address young people from all social backgrounds. In the long term, this project will contribute to systemic change by increasing the number of young people who are aware of climate justice & sustainability issues, think critically as global citizens and act as agents of change.
